Martial Law May Be Revoked At Lexington Today, and All Is Quiet Again

(By Associated Press)
Eddyville, Ky., Feb. 11—Wm. Lockett, heavily guarded by federal soldiers, arrived here on a special train from Lexington at 8 o'clock this morning. Squads deployed at intervals along the road from the station to the prison and in the center of a squad of 30 men, Lockett was marched to the death cell where a special death watch was placed over him to be maintained until he is electrocuted March 11th. An hour after his arrival, the train with 500 members of the First Division was on its way to Camp Taylor.

Left Lexington Last Night

Lexington, Feb. 11—Although William Lockett, convicted murderer of 10-year-old Geneva Hardman, is safe today in Eddyville prison, where he is to pay the death penalty for his crime on March 11th, 500 federal troops are held here today while the town remains nominally under martial law with the possibility it may be revoked during the day. Military officers spirited Lockett out of town on a special train last night, guarded by 400 soldiers.

Although technically martial law is still in force, practically all restrictions were lifted at noon today. The city police resumed their duties.

Student Saved Many Lives

Lexington, Feb. 11—To Milton Summerville, 21 years old, a medical student at the University of Louisville, fell one of the most thrilling experiences incident to the rioting Monday in which four men were killed outright and another fatally wounded.

Summerville was the lad who overturned a machine gun, putting it out of commission just as it was about to fire into the thick of the crowd. His action certainly saved many lives. Summerville, although guns flashed in his face and bullets whizzed by his head, escaped scathless, his only "casualty" being a bayonet "wound" through his trouser's leg.

Summerville's home is at Mayfield. He said he was on his way from school to the Phoenix Cafeteria, where he is employed, when he stopped in front of the court house on Main street. He was standing in front of the crowd. A man with a big, red mustache, he said, held the rope. He and some other students were "joshing" the police, he said, when somebody behind him shouted "Lynch the nigger!"

"Right away they started to push and the first thing I knew I was pushed under the wire which kept back the crowd," said Summerville. "I could not stop myself nor get out of the way. The crowd was too big. I was on the steps to the court house door before I knew it."

"A policeman tried to take the rope away from the man with the red mustache. Suddenly a shot was fired from the right-hand window on the second floor. Then everybody began shooting at us. I was blinded by the flash of the guns. The soldiers and the deputies were pumping their guns into the crowd."

"A man came up on the other side of the steps and was grappling with the soldier who manned the machine gun there. I saw General Deweese reach over and club the man on the head with the butt of his revolver. The soldier then went to his machine gun again, but I fell over the machine gun, knocked it over and put it out of commission."

"Somebody stuck a bayonet through my pants leg from behind but I was mighty lucky, I guess."

MISS LAURA CLAY WINS BIG POINT IN HOUSE

Miss Laura Clay, state suffragist champion won quite a victory in the House at Frankfort Monday. Representative A. L. Hamilton, W. T. Beckham and Geo. C. Wagoner led a successful fight to have the State Suffrage amendment read into the calendar. Republican Floor Leader Joseph Lazarus tried to have the amendment recommitted, but several of his own party deserted him and he was unable to muster a majority.

What Mr. Hamilton characterized as a "bare-faced repudiation of an agreement," he denounced in the House. Representative Rory O. Huntsman, Scottsville, Republican, sided with Mr. Hamilton. About a dozen Republicans joined with the Democrats to advance the two measures, regardless of the motion of their floor leader.

It is the general belief that the administration is going to oppose the State suffrage amendment; also the one providing for a referendum on Federal amendments. The reason seems to be that but two amendments to the State Constitution may be submitted at the same session of the Legislature. The two administration submission of the state suffrage have been reported in both branches, and it is believed that the Republicans hope to see them given preference.

Miss Clay and her colleagues point to the fact that both parties declared in their platforms for a submission of the State suffrage amendment.

This defeat was the first real setback for the administration in the House has capered every time that Floor Leader Lazarus has cracked the whip. The State suffrage issue has been advanced at this session by Miss Laura Clay and other women representing the Citizens' Committee for States' Rights Equal Suffrage Amendment.

KENTUCKY MINE OWNERS OBJECT

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Feb. 11—After the coal strike settlement commission agreed to render a decision as to making the 14 per cent wage increase retroactive to October 1st, in Kentucky, the heads of the Kentucky Operators Association refused to submit to the jurisdiction of the commission and withdrew from the hearing. This was the first refusal of operators in any field to accept the commission's settlement of the questions involved in the strike. Representatives of the mine workers presented their side of the case but President Robinson did not indicate what course the commission might pursue in view of the refusal of operators to give their reasons. The claims of Kentucky miners that the award should be retroactive was based on their contention that Kentucky mines were operated on practically 100 per cent basis throughout the state.

President Lewis of the mine workers, charged in refusing to submit their case, that the operators of Kentucky were "hedging on their acceptance of the original strike settlement terms." This was hotly denied by J. Y. Moore, spokesman for the association, who declared the question of retroactive wages is covered in existing agreements between the operators and miners. Speaking for Western Kentucky operators, J. V. Norman said his association agreed to accept any of the commission's wage awards and he would submit a brief in reply to Lewis.

NEW SCHOOL LAW PASSES IN SENATE

Makes Radical Changes In State's Educational System—The Legislature.

Frankfort, Ky., February 11—By the vote of 34 to 2, the Senate passed the bill of Senator Robert Antle, providing for a nonpartisan County Board of Education with authority to appoint a Superintendent and teachers and fixing a minimum tax rate of 25 cents for schools.

The bill, which revolutionizes administration of the public school system of the state is one of the foremost measures of the administration. The Senate consumed practically all of the day on the bill.

A measure was introduced by Senator Hiram M. Brock to abolish the office of trustee of the jury fund, effective January, 1922. This bill will abolish 120 offices regarded by Governor Morrow as useless.

Senator White L. Moss offered a bill to fix license on automobiles at $1 per horse power.

A bill of Senator M. C. Swinford will enable a person accused of a felony to make application for a change of venue of his absence through his attorney.

Favorable report was made on the bill of Senator Clem S. Nunn to prohibit manufacture, sale or transportation of liquor, except for medicinal, medicinal, scientific or sacramental purposes; fixing penalties providing for forfeiture of property used in its manufacture, sale or transportation; requiring liquor sold on prescription to be harmlessly medicated, limiting the amount prescribed to one point in ten days; requiring manufacturers of soft drinks, containing one half of one per cent of alcohol, to obtain licenses, and limiting the amount of alcohol in extracts to one half of one per cent. This bill is designed to enforce statewide prohibition voted in the last state election.

Nine bills were passed in the House and the only bill that with any opposition was the bill of Representative John L. Trimble to fix the minimum salary of public school teachers at $75. Representative Herbert Lawrence sought to amend the bill by making the minimum salary $60. This was rejected by the House. The bill passed, 72 to 6.

The bill of Representative Rev. J. Cain to provide for teaching the art of debating in public schools passed, 66 to 7.

The bill of A. J. McCandless to prohibit appointment of guardians by Courts, amending Section 2022, Kentucky Statutes, was passed unanimously.

The bill of Representative Howard G. Skiles to require deeds to slow whether property is situated in graded school districts was passed unanimously.

HIGH SCHOOL TO PUT ON "FI FI"

Attractive Home Talent Play To Be Given To Raise Funds New Gymnasium

Much interest is being manifested by the Madison High School student body over the play, "Fi-Fi of the Toy Shop," which will be staged by the Madison High School at the Caldwell auditorium on Thursday and Friday evenings, February the 26th and 27th. This play is a fantastic musical extravaganza with eleven principal parts and more than 200 in the entire cast. The production will be replete with scenery and costumes. It is looked forward to as the dramatic event of the winter in the city of Richmond and society is quite in expectation. A fine enthusiasm and spirit pervades the personnel of the play and every augury gives assurance of success. The stars are in their places.

The play will be staged by local talent entirely and the Madison High School Producing Company will furnish scenery, costumes and a dramatic coach. Mr. J. J. Foster of Toledo, Ohio, the dramatic coach, arrived Monday full of vigor. He has a most pleasing personality and has already won the hearts of the Madison High School student body, and those who are working with him are responding readily in getting the play ready for the rise of the first curtain on the evening of February the 26th.

The leading lady will be the character of Fi-Fi from which the performance takes its name. This part will be played by the talented young Sophomore, Miss Marion Guinchigian. Dorothy Terrill will popularize the role of Bonnie, the Toy Shop's daughter. Iva Jean Todd is well suited to the role of Ink Spot which is a low comedy "coon" or "Topsy" role. The comely role of Looey has been assigned to Robbie James. Walker McKinney and Edna Smith are showing up well in Aurelia the Fairy Queen and Aurelia the Witch. The male characters have not been tried out and consequently they will receive notice in a later write up. Likewise the Dance of the Bridesmaids, and the Paper Dolls will receive special mention later.

The High School has as a financial aim in presenting this play the making of the amount of money which they have pledged to the Board of Education as their part toward the building of a gymnasium on the Madison High school campus. The city school system is sadly in need of a gymnasium where not only athletics but where physical education can be given. It is the belief that the citizenry of the city will respond most cordially in helping the schools obtain this long needed constructive addition to their plant.

A school system is worth very little that does not have behind it the united support, the united spirit and the united enthusiasm of not only the patrons but of all the people who are vitally interested in the development of their city. You can show your school spirit, your interest in the particular need of the High school at this time by being present at a performance of the high school play on February 26th or 27th. The High school does not hope to build a gymnasium with its share of the proceeds. It only hopes to raise the amount which it has pledged to the Board of Education for this purpose. It is true that this amount is small in comparison to the cost of a completed gym, but the High school will know that it has fulfilled its obligation that is much to know.

Bursting With Riches
London, Feb. 11—Egypt is bursting with wealth accumulated from cotton, says a correspondent of the Daily Express in Cairo.

"Illiterate natives living in mud huts have made 20,000 pounds sterling out of cotton deals," he continues. "Some have made 100,000 pounds. They are buying land at inflated prices and paying off mortgages which are regarded as family heirlooms. One British official says that the country has made at least 10,000,000 pounds. Naturally there is an influx of new millionaires in Cairo with a huge demand for automobiles, jewelry, new houses and all kinds of luxuries, but in the province many of the newly rich have not changed their standard of living."

Jeff King, of near Midway, was over Wednesday morning to get his brother Wm. King. The mother, Mrs. Martha King, near Lexington, is very ill, and fear are entertained that she can not last long.
